

Time is a concept (form) of the ego. Over identification with form (material) disconnects us from spirit (our essential self).

The only true moment (now) is a fine razor's edge resting between the past and the present.

This is the only space where the essential self, the one "I", can be found

Jon Tomas Whatley and Katherine Lott

www.BodyworkerGuides.com